

Crews Wrap Up Busy Day

Written by Larry Nelson

Friday, 15 July 2011 19:18 - Last Updated Friday, 15 July 2011 19:29

Crews Wrap Up Busy Day; Cargo Transfers 70 Percent Complete

The crews of space shuttle Atlantis and the International Space Station have gone to sleep after a busy day of computer repair, transfer work, a call from the President, and a series of media interviews.

Tomorrow, Flight Day 9, once again will be spent moving supplies and equipment back and forth between the space station and the Raffaello multi-purpose logistics module. The crew is more than 70 percent done with the transfer activities.

Crews Wrap Up Busy Day

Written by Larry Nelson

Friday, 15 July 2011 19:18 - Last Updated Friday, 15 July 2011 19:29

The crew is scheduled to awaken at about 11:29 p.m. to another special wake up song, which – along with the mission's previous wakeup calls.

Check it out online: <http://www.nasa.gov/multimedia/nasatv/index.html>